Fifth fair aggregate for Berg

Elk Point's First Lady of Agricultural Fairdom has done it again.

Norma Berg, Grand Aggregate winner in 1990, 1988, 1987 and 1986, took home her fifth win in six years from this weekend's Elk Point Agricultural Society Fair, along with section aggregates in Canning, Flowers and House Plants. A plaque from Vogel's UFA and a cash prize from Norcen Energy Resources for the Grand Aggregate, plus a gift certificate from the Empress Restaurant, hair care products from Michelle's Hair Design and a set of planters from Sunshine Bus Lines and Pederson Bus Lines, joined the boxes filled with a wide variety of entries carried home from the fair by Mrs. Berg and her proud husband, Leonard.

Lois Yaremkevich, who was second in the Grand Aggregate race for the second consecutive year, took top honors in the Baking section, adding a large food hamper from Elk Point Co-Op and a cash prize from Pan Canadian Petroleum to her array of prize ribbons.

Third place in the Grand Aggregate standings went to Fay Sommerville, with that prize donated by Golden Loaf Bakery.

A special section of Baking was devoted to Heart Smart cooking, with Ellen Seward winning a Heart Health cookbook and a first place ribbon, with Rose Doucet second and Fay Sommerville third. There was also a section for a complete ethnic meal, won for the second year by Sherry Pelech, whose menu this year consisted of Hungarian taste treats. Her prize of cookware was donated by Albi Electric.

Lyn Young was the Fresh Fruit winner, receiving a plaque and ornament from Woody's Trophy and Gift. Young Brett Flanders took home a carton of grease donated by Terry Wozniak Turbo Bulk for his win in the Hay and Grain department.

Jean Dacyk edged out Gisele Pedersen by a very slim margin to win the Vegetables section, and a prize from Phil's Hardware.

Lee Johnson was the winner in the Arts, Crafts and Hobbies section, and accepted a prize from Elk Point Insurance, while Ellen Seward, winner of the Knitting, Crocheting and Weaving section, took home a prize sponsored by the Toronto Dominion Bank.

Holly Astill was a first time winner for the Sewing section, with her prize sponsored by Capitol Drugs. Sewing Convenor Cheri Lindquist sponsored a prize for the top Junior seamstress, which was won by Suzy Rae.

Rilla Higgins' talent with a camera was evident in the numerous entries which won her the Photography section, with a prize from Dave's Pizza. An additional photo contest was sponsored by the County of St. Paul and the Soil Savers group, with Krista Seward taking first place and her mother, Ellen, second for their photos of good cropping practices. Sharil Baumgardner of Soil Savers also made a draw for six caps.

Krista was also the winner of the Junior Fair, winning by a single point over Jennifer Flanders to take home the Wagon Wheel Ranch trophy.

The Creative Writing section was won by Irene Melin, who accepted a gift certificate from the Elk Point Review.

Marion Smith was the winner of the Senior Citizens Section, winning a prize sponsored by Irene Magnusson in memory of her late husband Clif.

Entries were up in the Canning, Vegetables, Fresh Fruit, House Plants, Sewing and Junior Fair, down slightly in Senior Citizens and photography. All in all, it was a very fine display put forth by a community filled with talented people.

Amoco announces final details on job layoffs

Final details were released last week by Amoco Canada on the layoffs which were announced some months ago as part of that company's restructuring. There will be ten layoffs in the Elk Point area, eighteen in Lloydminster and two at Soars Lake, with most of these effective September 1.

Amoco is providing severance packages, along with financial counseling and job placement counseling, to the laid off workers, with most of the counseling being done within the next two weeks, to help these people make a new start.

Amoco's Bob Smook said the layoffs were "not a very enjoyable experience. I hope we won't have to repeat it," but added that the restructuring was necessary due to the changing times. Amoco had originally anticipated announcement of the layoffs in late July, but Smook said "the final deadline hasn't changed."

Pride Of The Pumpkin Patch

Barb and Bill Milholland proudly display Bill's giant pumpkin, which normally hides deep in a jungle of leafy vegetation near the Milholland home. This fine specimen already has a 40 inch circumference, while Mrs. Milholland claims ownership of a somewhat smaller pumpkin nearby. Looks like pumpkin pie time is not far off!

Great pumpkin stories

Billie Milholland

Early this spring, at least 14 adventurous gardeners in the Elk Point area began to grow the 'giant' pumpkin with aspirations of competing in the Smoky Lake Great Pumpkin Weigh-In during the Thanksgiving weekend this fall. The plans are to go together as the Bicentennial Brigade of Pumpkin Growers, do a little Bicentennial promotion, brag about the superiority of Elk Point pumpkins, sell a few pumpkin cookbooks and generally have some fun.

Some of the pumpkins have met with untimely demises. One poor curcurbit suffered hail damage just after being set out. It bravely rallied and put forth some new shoots, only to be scared by a young bear. It got over that shock and proceeded to make new leaves, only to be wiped out by a feak frost that didn't touch any other garden growth in the area. The growers are undaunted. "This is next year country," they stoutly declare.

High winds and rice growing conditions caused the passing of another pumpkin youngster, while others struggle with life-threatening cases of main stem split. Several pumpkins grew to vigorous adolescence only to fall victim to various unfortunate accidents. One distraught pumpkin grower received flowers from other growers when her strapping yellow globe expired. The optimistic pumpkin growers are not giving up. Some vines, after many fertilization failures, have finally set fruit and are happily gobbling feasts of horse manure, seaweed fertilizer, rabbit raisin tea, and rainwater, as they rest on thick mulch and take over the whole back forty.

One pumpkin, by August 8th, had reached the astonishing proportions of 40 inches around the middle and you can bet its proud owners are not about to put it on a diet. Another is close behind at 35 inches and several are 20 inches. As we go to press, another fertilization has been announced and several new girl flowers sighted. The owners of late bloomers are not in the least daunted. It is agreed that the race still belongs to anyone.

Crops in trouble

Hot dry weather is quickly turning the summer into a disaster for area farmers, according to local district agriculturalist Kirsty Piquette.

On Friday Piquette said this year's yields could well be half the normal size.

Barley seed is looking shriveled and small and farmers are taking the crop down early. The story's the same for other crops from canola to field peas: harvesting will be, on the average, about two weeks early - well before rodeo time which, in St. Paul, is when locals usually think about harvesting.

The culprit, of course, is Mother Nature's continual stinginess with rain.

"We've been getting isolated showers while other areas have been getting rain. We've had maybe a tenth of an inch at a time here" Piquette said.

Piquette says conditions worsen as you go north and east in the County of St. Paul. This is confirmed by a St. Lina resident who dropped off precipitation statistics last week.

Those records show that in the first three weeks of July, St. Lina saw only 19.2 millimetres of rain. Last year July saw 103.3 millimetres and the July average is rarely below 50 millimetres.

St. Lina saw 51.4 millimetres in June which is the third lowest June accumulation over the past 10 years.

Piquette says drought conditions are having an impact on more than just crops. Farmers are already selling-off cattle which are running out of forages to feed on.

Without anything for their cattle to graze on, farmers will incur extra feed costs and Piquette figures that could extend the wintering period by as much as three months.

That's a lot of money if you have a large herd.

"They're selling them because they have no choice," Piquette said.

Adding to the headaches is the fact that record high temperatures are eliminating water reserves leaving dugouts dry. Piquette says some farmers have been renting a pump from the Agriculture office to replenish supplies, which is a solution but also another expense.

Meanwhile the drought continues. Last Thursday St. Paul saw a record high temperature of 34 degrees and predictions of evening thundershowers continue to disappoint.

And if things weren't bad enough, initial crop prices for 1991 are very low.

Observers say trade subsidies are still keeping world crop production higher than the market requires, and preventing the supply side of the market from correcting itself.

For St. Paul area farmers, there isn't a lot that can be done. Piquette suggests insurance programs will be used heavily this year and Beaver River MP Deborah Grey hinted recently there may be some special assistance for farmers affected by the drought.

Pee Wee girls compete in Summer Games

Linda Piotrowski

Elk Point Pee Wee Girls Fastball team finished their league season by taking first place in the 'B' Division.

Finding the season a little too short they rallied to find a few more players so they could compete in the North East Alberta Summer Games.

They played Bantam level girls at an average age of one to two years older than themselves. They played four games on Saturday. The results put them in a position to come back on Sunday for the Bronze medal playoff.

Elk Point played Vegreville and was only 2 runs back at the end of the fifth inning. The next inning, Vegreville broke loose and took a commanding lead.

The Elk Point Pee Wees proved how strong they were and they also learned more techniques to use next year. Vegreville took the medal this year, but watch out next year! Well done, ladies.

Elk Point Pee Wee Girls

After completing the season with a B Side league win, the Pee Wees went on to compete in the North East Alberta Summer Games, where they were edged out of the medals by Vegreville.

4-H is going to the dogs

4-H is going to the dogs. Just when you thought 4-H was done for the season, look again.

A 4-H Canine Club is starting up in Elk Point. This is perfect for the kids who don't have access to a farm or calves.

The 4-Hers will be feeding, grooming, training and showing their animals just like beef club members do.

There will be three levels of competence and members will proceed from the basics to fairly advanced training.

There are clubs in our area to compete against so it should be a fun and informative year.

A well trained dog is a useful and happy member of your family or farm crew.

In Our View

Thoughts on passing year

Today as I sit to visit awhile with you who are my faithful readers, I'm thinking of the coming Fair in our town, and what a year has brought since the Fair in August last year.

Of course, we are all a year older, perhaps a year wiser, a shade greyer, a few pounds heavier (?) or possibly, a few pounds lighter. And some are not here who were here a year ago.

Around the world, many changes. We've participated in a "real" war, as opposed to a 'paper war,' leaders have fallen, new ones taken their place, governments have changed, even the shapes of countries have been altered. And the face of the earth has lost a whole lot of soil, blown off by the wind or washed away in floods, forests have been chopped down, or burned away, while the 'natural' disasters of flood, earthquakes, tidal waves and tornadoes, plus other weather phenomena have drastically changed the face of our planet in some areas.

Here in Canada, our home and native land, we are exceptionally lucky - and I use the word lucky advisedly - in not having any major, major disasters. It's only the roll of the dice, not our own great use of brains that has kept our disasters smallish, compared to other places. I'm sure, if we keep trying, we will be able to make our lovely land a stark and barren desert before too long, wind-swept and unproductive, sort of as the South Americans are doing with their rain forests.

But it is heartening to see and hear that some folks are taking note, that some thought is being given to preservation of our land, and better care taken of the soil.

Around the town of Elk Point there have been changes, too. Mostly they don't affect me much, as I still 'hide' out here on my farmstead, and I don't see all the changes, but I hear about them, and am aware of the changing face of the town. For myself, it's great to see a few miles of dusty roadbed disappear under a coating of - what? oil? pavement? - whatever, it's a dust-free covering on the road surface, possibly not as long lasting as the sterner stuff of the main highways and streets, but a great relief from the boiling dust, and some mud puddles of lo, these many years. There's still time

Summer is going fast. In just three weeks, September's Labor Day holiday weekend will be over, and school will be back in session, as life gets back to normal after a busy, fulfilled time.

Three weeks...let's see...that still gives you time to have all sorts of good times. Even if your holiday time is all used up and your vacation funds spent, there is lots to see and do right close to home. How about...

Or you could...

Visit Vermilion Fair...try out the new tennis courts...take a picnic lunch out to Whitney Lake...camp out at the Elks Campground at Kehewin...tour the Salt Plant...attend the Ag Society Horse Show...go outside after dark and look at the stars.

And there's still time to...

Watch the sunset at Ross Lake...take a mini golf tour of Elk Point, A's Driving Range, Strawberry Golf Course and Lea Park... check out the paintball adventures at Lindbergh...mosey over to St. Paul for the LRA Rodeo finals...take a bike ride...invite a friend to lunch...and savor every last minute of summer.

Tour the Fort George Museum...walk through the hiking trails at the rec land...take your camera over to Mural Park, and search for the faces of your friends and family...spend an afternoon under a tree with a good book...eat a banana split...run through the lawn sprinkler...go fishing.

Billie Milholland

Every fur trade post had a garden and a cellar to winter the vegetables. Gardening may not seem to be a very adventuresome pursuit for the vigorous men of the old Northwest, but the appeal of vegetables to ease the monotony of pemmican and meat was compelling for the most hardened Nor'wester.

Alexander Henry the younger writes from his Pembina River Post, April 30, 1804: "Grande Gueck stabbed Capot Rouge, Le Boeuf stabbed his young wife in the arm, Little Shell almost beat his old mother's brains out with a club...I sowed garden seeds."

As far back as 1668 when the Hudson's Bay Co. ship Nonsuch became icebound in Hudson's Bay and had to winter over, the first thing her stranded sailors did was to prepare the ground and plant a garden.

Although spruce beer was a great favorite for preventing scurvy, vegetables that would keep most of the winter were a big help too. Peas and turnips were the most popular but most early fort gardens also featured lettuce, radish, mustard greens, spinach, cabbage and cole. Later on, records show onions and kidney beans in most fort gardens.

Everyone at the fort had to take a turn in the garden but the daily work usually fell to men who were too sick to do heavy work but not ill enough to stay in the buffalo robes.

It is speculated that since the dandelion is not native to North America, it is possible that the Hudson's Bay Company may have had a hand in introducing it. In 1768 a visiting astronomer to Churchill reported that "dandelions made a most excellent sallad to our roast geese."

In 1803, Alexander Mackenzie wrote that Peter Pond "had formed as fine a kitchen garden as ever I saw in Canada." Pond was living on the banks of the Athabasca River then.

to believe at least some of them are home, minding their business, keeping the kids fed, and the socks mended. If men would do the same, perhaps there would be less blood-thirsty headlines.

Another headline sort of singed me off the other day: it seems the PCs are having their annual convention, down east in the big city area. The headlines (reduced to my words) say: 'Brian speaks of the end of the recession, as he addresses his "dying" party.' (!!!!) How do the headline creators know it's a "dying" party, I'd like to know? And what possible excuse do they have to throw such a comment in there, when they are reporting a convention, not a seance - or crystal ball session?

And so, another Fair approaches, and I hope you all have a lot more to enter than I do. This prevailing hot weather has removed most of the starch from my backbone; it's about all I can do to pick the berries and peas. But I'll be there, and rejoice in the efforts of other, more energetic persons.

I hope no one panicked to see my 'tracks' all over the "Review" last week: no, I am not taking over, just trying to help out a bit. Even the best of slaves need a holiday now and then, and our faithful Vicki certainly deserves hers. Vicki has been, indeed, a "good and faithful servant" to the town of Elk Point, always on hand when events of interest and importance to the townsfolk and surrounding area are taking place, ready and able to report, attend meetings, take pictures, etc., etc.

Maybe the town should consider a "Vicki Brooker Day?" I'll come.

Gardening at the Forts

In 1803, Alexander the Younger at a post about 65 miles south of Winnipeg harvested 300 large heads of cabbage, 8 bushels of carrots, 16 bushels of onions, 10 bushels of turnips, some beets, parsnips, etc. Three days later he harvested 420 bushels of potatoes.

In 1804 at the same place Henry the Younger grew cucumbers and made a 9 gallon keg of pickles using vinegar made from the Manitoba Maple sap, which is lower in sugar than the sugar maple and makes superior vinegar.

In 1910, after being harassed all winter by the Northwest Company, Peter Fidler, at Ile-a-la-Crosse could not bear to see his enemies suffer without a garden so he gave them turnip seed, a few Windsor beans, kidney beans, parsnip and carrot.

We don't think of gardens when we think fur trade but they were planted and guarded jealously by the rough, tough men of the Northwest.

Circled Wagons At End Of The Trail

Participants of the Happy Trails Wagon Train made a huge circle which completely filled the parking lot at Spring Park Hall, as they marked another successful trek with a supper and musical entertainment around the campfire located in the centre of the circle. While certainly not needed for warmth, the cheerful blaze soon cooked up the pots of campfire coffee and roasted multiple marshmallows to go along with the good conversation.

Happy trails for all

A six day trek through scenic parkland came to an end Saturday, when the Happy Trails Wagon Train reached their final destination for the year at Spring Park Hall, and celebrated their safe return with a supper and musical entertainment.

The six day journey started Monday from Lindbergh, after a pancake breakfast sponsored by Sunshine Bus Lines. The trail led northward to Muriel Lake, where a one-day stopover featured swimming and a potluck supper, before turning south again and climbing the wooded slopes of Moose Mountain on their way home.

No rain marred this year's travels, but record temperatures led the wagoners to hitch up in the cool of early morning, and set up camp soon after noon hour, in the interest of keeping both horses and participants from suffering in the intense heat. No mishaps were reported, and the entire group stayed intact for the duration of the train.

A total of seventeen horse drawn conveyances, from a two-wheeled, one horse cart to a driving buggy modified with a canvas cover to Conestoga type wagons such as might have been seen on the Oregon Trail, made up the train, along with a number of outriders. Participants came from Esterhazy, Assiniboia and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, from Camrose, Boyle, Bonnyville and Clonard, as well as from the Elk Point and Lindbergh areas. Joe Brunner noted that there were "some new wagons, and a few old. We like the old ones to come back and bring a friend."

Bob and Bea Stevenson drove 860 km from Esterhazy, east of Regina, to take part, bringing with them their grandson, Jesse, who came an extra few thousand kilometers—all the way from California—for this real life western adventure. The Stevensons "certainly enjoyed the trip. We had a very nice trail, it was well organized, with good, friendly people. We hope to come back next year." Bob Stevenson worked in the Elk Point area from 1953 to 1955, and enjoyed seeing some of his old friends again, as well as meeting many new ones.

The Stevensons, who have been on various wagon trains over the past few years, were presented with a painting by local artist Ralph Kryvenchuk, as a prize for the visitors coming the longest distance. In addition, a number of prize draws were made each evening, as the participants relaxed around the campfire.

What's news at the library?

On Friday, August 2nd the preschoolers listened to three stories and two puppet shows. Many thanks to puppeteers Gary and Meghan O'Neill for entertaining the kids with "Punch and Toby." After blasting off to the next planet, Techno, the kids created interesting space creatures out of play dough.

Last Tuesday's discussion was about comets and the elementary kids talked about what they would put in a time capsule that was to be opened in 2076, then next time Halley's Comet returns to our solar system. Afterwards, the kids created mobiles of 3-dimensional planets, stars and rockets. Many kids had decided to enter their project in the Elk Point Fair this weekend.

On Thursday afternoon, August 8, the kids practiced their puppet show, "Punch and Judy." For the craft portion of the puppet workshop session the kids created colorful stick characters.

The library would like to thank Faye Smith for her donation of two hand puppets, Bugs Bunny and Sylvester the Cat.

NEW BOOKS

1991 Writers' Market-Where and how to sell what you write. 4000 places to sell your articles, books, fillers, greeting cards, novels, plays, scripts and short stories.

The North American fur trade of the 18th and 19th centuries was a vividly complex and changing social world. Strangers In Blood by Jennifer S. H. Brown fills a major gap in fur trade literature by systematically examining the traders as a group; their backgrounds, social patterns, domestic lives and families, and the problems of their offspring.

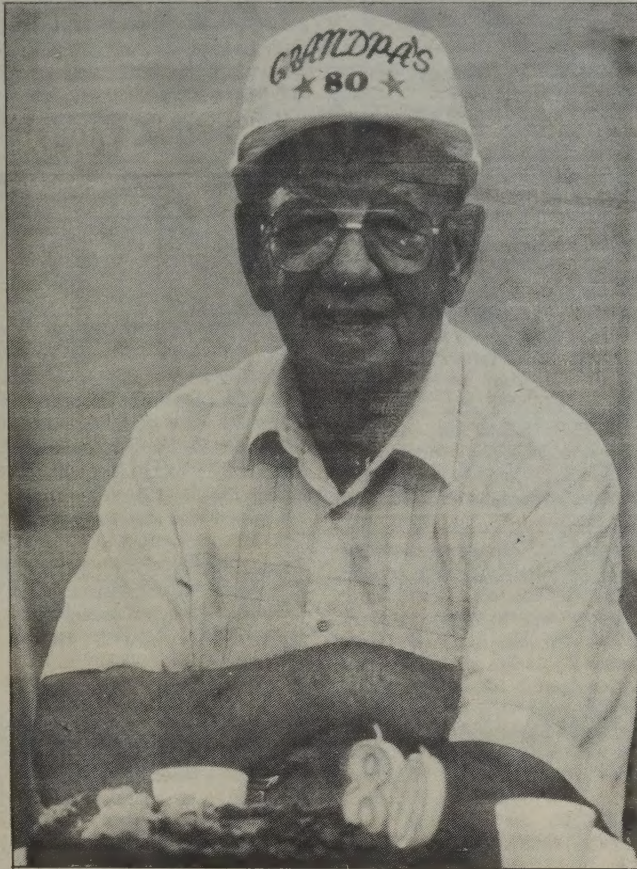

The Buffalo People by Lis Bryan- this book attempts to recreate the lives of some of the very first Canadians, the buffalo hunters who lived on the grasslands between the waning days of the great Ice Age and the coming of the first Europeans. It is also a brief history of archaeology in the prairie provinces.

The Power of Dreams by Brian Inglis-Why do we dream? How have dreams helped inspire creative artists? How useful are they in daily problem solving? How much can dreams tell us about the future? This wide ranging and immensely stimulating account sifts the historical evidence, describes recent scientific research and goes on to argue an empirical case for both a psychic element in dreams and their frequently beneficial value in everyday life.

A Parent's Guide To Children's Medication In Canada makes a very important contribution to parents' knowledge about pharmaceuticals for children. It is a most valuable resource for anyone with children.

Three talking books in the library for children are: Over In The Meadows, The Baby Leopard and Hush Little Baby.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD FOR THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING OF AN APPLICATION BY ELK POINT GAS, LTD. FOR AN INCREASE IN NATURAL GAS RATES FOR THE YEARS ENDING JULY 31, 1991, 1992 AND 1993.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING OF AN APPLICATION BY ELK POINT GAS, LTD. FOR AN INTERIM REFUNDABLE INCREASE IN NATURAL GAS RATES PENDING THE FIXING OF FINAL RATES FOR THE YEARS ENDING JULY 31, 1991, 1992 AND 1993.

Notice of Public Hearing

Elk Point Gas, Ltd. (Elk Point) has applied to the Public Utilities Board (the Board) for an increase in natural gas rates for the test years ended July 31, 1991, 1992 and 1993, and for an interim refundable increase in natural gas rates pending the fixing of final rates for the years ended July 31, 1991, 1992 and 1993.

Elk Point's General Rate Application, dated July 25, 1991, is for an increase in natural gas rates for the test periods ended July 31, 1991, 1992 and 1993. In this general rate application, Elk Point forecasts a 1991 revenue deficiency of $76,760, a 1992 revenue deficiency of $109,115, and a 1993 revenue deficiency of $163,441 at existing rate levels.

Elk Point has also applied for an interim refundable rate increase of $0.45 per Mcf (approximately $0.445 per GJ) effective for all commodity sales on or after August 1, 1991, pending the fixing of final rates as the Board may determine on hearing the general rate application for the 1991/92/93 test periods. If the interim rate increase is approved, Elk Point would generate an additional $75,645 of revenue during the period August 1, 1991 to July 31, 1992.

The effects of the interim refundable rate increase and the proposed 1991 annualized and 1992 annualized rates are as follows:

Fixed Charge/month	$15.00	$15.00	$25.00	$30.00

Royalty Rider	$ 0.02/Mcf	$ 0.02/Mcf

Rate 3 - Industrial Rate

(Applicable to all customers whose annual consumption is in excess of 10,000 Mcf [August 1, 1991 - 10,000 GJ].)

Fixed Charge/month	$40.00	$40.00	$150.00	$180.00
Commodity Charge	$ 2.72/Mcf	$ 3.17/Mcf	$ 3.015/GJ	$ 3.10/GJ
Royalty Rider	$0.02/Mcf	$0.02/Mcf

Additional Municipal Tax charges of 5% are applied to accounts of all customers residing in the Town of Elk Point.

TAKE NOTICE that the Board will conduct public hearings for the purpose of receiving evidence and representations with respect to the above matter.

The public hearing dealing with the interim rate application will be held at the Elk Point Provincial Court House, Elk Point, Alberta, on Monday, August 26, 1991, commencing at 10:30 a.m. in the morning.

Following the Interim Rate Application hearing, the Board will hold a pre-hearing conference relating to the general rate application. The purpose of the pre-hearing conference is to establish procedures and dates for the continuation of the general rate application, to identify issues and to deal with other such matters as may be appropriate.

After consideration of all filed material, and the evidence presented during the proceedings the Board may accept, reject or vary the revenue requirements, revenues and rates presented by Elk Point.

TO SEE THE RATE APPLICATION INFORMATION

Complete copies of the Applications are available for inspection at the Board's offices in Edmonton. You may also arrange to examine or obtain the filed information by contacting Elk Point at the address indicated below.

All persons who are registered as intervenors will receive notice of the time and place of the continuation of these proceedings.

If you do not file an intervention, the Board may proceed in your absence and you will not be entitled to further notice of these proceedings.
